THE WAR IN MISSOURI... THE SITU.

In no other section of the continent has the present war been presented with more energy. as the struggle for prodominance between the contending parties been more desperate than it Mesouri. The war in the West, now assuming such preponderous proportions, was first huaugurated by the southern levalists of this State. The to ain that called them to arms and sounded the deah-knell of empty and numearing compromass with a worse than Punic faith, was found in the bold and timely proclamation issued by that fearless champion of southern freedom CLAIBORNE JACKSON. Without seeking to dodge mainty policy, the friends of our cause, rallied in pressions of Federal systems, and help to schleve that independence which none but those who
